Where the Guns Go: U.S. Policy and Human Rights in Mexico

A film by Abad Leyva and John Lindsay-Poland

In 2017, after a decade of the U.S.-supported drug war, Mexico experienced more killings than ever – most of them committed with guns coming from the United States, legally or illegally. What can be done to stop the bloodshed with U.S.-sourced weaponry?

Film screening followed by discussion and Q&A with John Lindsay-Poland
